

MANAGEWARE, LLC OFFERS NEW WORKERS' COMPENSATION INTEGRATION TOOL

PANDORA OFFERS SINGLE GATEWAY TO MANAGE MULTIPLE PROCESSES.

Mesa, Arizona—ManageWare, LLC (www.2csmanageware.com) an Arizona based supplier of managed care technology solutions, announces the launch of PanDora, the industry's first claims "gateway" that is able to centralize critical claims information across multiple processes.

Currently, ManageWare offers a single software platform that includes bill review, utilization review, provider connectivity solutions, and other related services. When the ManageWare platform is used in its entirety, clients can eliminate many of the EDIs and other related connectivity present in other unbundled offerings. PanDora was developed specifically to create integration of these processes in a one place, for a specific set of users, based on clients' individual requirements.

"Most payers understand that the claims process has become far more complicated in recent years, mostly because of the need to use multiple entry points to access claims information. PanDora offers a boost to productivity by having a variety of managed care and claims related tasks available through a single dashboard, said Arnold Silvestri, President of ManageWare. More specifically, PanDora enables access to this information in a user-configurable portal that summarizes data in one place. The response from our clients has been overwhelmingly positive, particularly those clients using multiple ManageWare modules today"

About ManageWare

ManageWare, LLC is a premiere software development company, with specific expertise in software development and system integration in the workers' compensation marketplace. The company's core focus is in providing Bill Review, Utilization Review, and provider connectivity solutions through a single proprietary platform to efficiently achieve maximum savings. Learn more about us at www.2csmanageware.com.